

Great Mother Message, June 11, 2019
Creating World Wide Web Energetic Connection

With every breath we take, let's feel closer to our physical, nature body, connecting in with all the circuits in our body, all the pathways of our consciousness. Let's move that all through each part of our body, down through our feet so that we imagine standing in the core of the earth. The Great Mother is very excited to see us this evening. She is made of stone and she moves like an acrobat and she is very young at heart and her hands are going to stroke our head and our heart, and her hands, even though made of stone are very soft and feel on our bodies like silk, just moving over us, cherishing us and connecting us to her heart.

She has the capacity to touch each of us at the same time, so we can imagine ourselves and all others who would like to be here with us wherever they are in the same circle with us. We are standing over the stone or rock or crystal that has our name on it and our footprints, so that our feet fit very comfortably into these receptacles of consciousness, and we settle here knowing that we belong here to the earth.

We are comfortable breathing into our bodies and into our legs and feet and into the earth, as if our heart and the Great Mother's heart are connected and there is no difference between our hearts. And from this place of union and togetherness and connection we will hear the Mother speak to us about her message for us in this time.

I bring you here to this place of mine and yours, which we share, and I want you to understand that we have always been in this place together. I want you to also understand that I have never left you. The moments of our togetherness are always and as I have said to you previous times, it is impossible for you to come into this physical body without my help and without my presence and without my loving.

As you were residing in your mother's womb through the Tree of Life in your placenta, I gathered all the forces of light to enlighten your belly, so that your power would be strengthened and provide for you a strong body, a strong heart and a strong spirit. In each moment we communed and you have forgotten this. Each of you has forgotten our vows together, our union together, and the places I took you to teach you about life.

In these series of calls that we are doing, I am very much wanting you to understand more deeply that we are already one body. It is not possible for you to be separate from me and breathe and live and have, what is called your being.

I have many tempestuous moments where I am calling attention to certain locations, places, and people on our earth planet. I have many moments when I am balancing the energies of human activity, action, and intention. This is whether it be in the positive energy of assuming strongly that life is the priority and that guarding and safe guarding and respecting and honoring life is the priority or whether it is not, through the actions of humanity. So I am always endeavoring to balance what is happening on my surface, on my body.

Because you are in tune with this idea that we are One I wish to share with you this evening another way for you to feel me, to carry me and to deeply observe the world around you from a different vantage point. Because we are at a time where the times, where the tide is turning, the energy is growing for manifesting peace. Even though, of course, when we look at an individual incidence we would not think such, think in this way, think this was possible or even probable.

So I want you to understand that your standing in my core is the first step to your autonomy, to your powerfully taking what we worked in your womb before you were born, and for bringing the perspective of your world into a different, the word seems to be connotation. So it is a different way of experiencing what is happening by viewing it from a different part of yourself, that would be the definition I was looking for.

As we think together feel together and act together, there is in me and perhaps in you a developing sensation of grace and union that we can work with at the same time. I want you to know that from your feet being in the core of my body and as you bring my essence up through your legs into your own heart, if you are diligent and if you are practically connected in your ideas, in your ideology of this or you have a picture of it or sense it, then my heart and your heart become the same.

We actually are growing your heart bigger so our hearts can be open—so our hearts beat at the same time at the same way. Then you will realize that you are here on this planet as a director of energy, which happens to be your own field of energy, and that by directing the energy in a conscious way, you are moving for me in the field of your own species to provide a different gateway for individuals as they make choice.

The way I would instruct it and share it for you is as you walk in the world you are walking with me. Your core energy and your feet are still connected to my body, always connected to my body. So any time you are moving you are One with me. So that would be for you the first step of this orientation, where you are recognizing and remembering that we are in this Oneness and that this Oneness is something that is so important because it is the place of the heart moving in different locations from the origin of our planet, from the heart that includes all life.

Therefore, as you move and have your being, you are also sharing and opening and extending this field of grace so that the planet, my body, your essence and energy and everything you work and move through and touch is part of a larger picture. It is part of a way that you can request to feel more connected to life yourself. And also because of that connection, you can provide, literally now provide, a space of safety for you, your families, your neighbors, your space, your land, and your animals. This is because as you move and have your being all around different places you are taking this field of safety with you.

Now this is clearly what you could think of as a vortex or you could think of it as a way of engaging a field of energy that would impact others. You could think of it as you have a way to be part of the consciousness of others as well, and that together we then formulate or structure or create or connect through ways in which you could actively shift the parameters of dualism and separation and judgment. This provides a place where the safety that I provide, that you embody, and that we share is felt and connected to all beings wherever you are. So as we create a larger field individually, each of you, then we are touching those fields.

When it is time for us to end our call, I am asking the one speaking to ask each of you where you live so we can feel the field growing and connecting and those individuals who will be on this program. Those that you know that are interested in doing something like this, that we set-up a network of individuals and you extend your field to connect the edges of your field with other's edges. It doesn't matter if we are talking 500 miles or 5 miles the idea is that we are spreading the consciousness together.

Now the importance of this for you is that there are ripples of energy now that are very destructive. Some people would think that it is my doing, that I am doing this. Actually it is the response of the kingdoms to energy and action of humanity, choices that are being made that are (you think of the word) riling up or extending incongruent energy in many places right now.

If we are to assist in the stabilization of many places on the planet right now, we want to extend our energies wherever possible. So wherever you know people in different parts of the world you might send them this recording or this transcript and ask them to join us to create this world wide web energy, just like a spider to create a home, we are creating unification.

Now I know that you know that this is a very tender time. People are losing their faith in many institutions and governance, in a capacity to have a livelihood or their crops. The honesty in the world is diminished quite a bit. The consciousness of people is searching for something to do to help in some way to provide another input into what is occurring that would manifest in a way that would offer an extremely clear course for humanity.

This is not in the sections that have to do with countries, because there are no boundaries here. I have no boundaries. I don't have states, or localities or borders all of that...it doesn't compute for me. This is not of the etheric reality that we live. We are One, One, One everything. And so if we begin to dissipate through the fields, this idea of separation, and we gather people together to assist us, then we are literally, in a real way, taking those boundaries away. And that needs to happen because underneath the agreements that people have about territory, there is an idea of ownership. There is an idea of what you can think of as higher and lower status or standards or countries are first world, second world, third world—all of those things.

There are very strong opinions and beliefs about the different cultures and all of these things we know. It is our opinion, our objective and our opportunity to settle once and for all these levels of separation so that they no longer impact anyone on the planet, anything on the planet.

This has to do of course with animals. The one speaking got information from South Africa that has these lion camps to save the lions from hunting. The Creatures have been relegated to awesome, powerful trophies to bring home, to the very finite little guys, amoebas and so forth. There is such a judgment about the importance of these different life forms and so I have instructed you many times to honor all life, no matter what it is, if it will bite you or not.... Shoo it away and use things that will support distance and space.

It is important for me that you trust. I said this again in another time that we had a message for you that if we are afraid of life then when we walk into a situation in life and life can feel our fear and there is no trust. Then whoever and whatever and however the situation arises the lack of trust leads to just feeling invaded or unconnected and there are results of that that happen—that you are getting bitten or hurt or running away or these things.

What I would like to propose to you is that all creatures, all kingdoms all aspects, all essences and all places on the planet and all life on the planet and all different kinds of species are honored remarkably—that in a remarkable way you are honoring this consciousness of life above all else. And the priority is to bring this huge blanket of conscious awareness to everything, every time you go out of your home, every time you think of another species, or you are working with some idea of what is happening on this planet. You immediately create a circular field, and it is above you and below you and on each side. It is a sphere that you cultivate and open and carry.

The thing that is extremely valuable for you now is this understanding that you are welcoming life and therefore life will welcome you. This is because you have this structure, this whole brain idea, and you have left and right. You have intelligence and brilliance. You can recognize yourself in the mirror and can drive cars. You are the species that trust first. That is what was meant by giving you the honor of the highest element of power in this universe and on planet earth.

The whole idea for you is that you are wise enough to trust first to honor life, to bring beings together, to open your consciousness to include everyone and everything as important life to you and everyone else.

And so this timing for you is very important because it is the coming together of many areas of awareness for many times. It is the opening of many gateways. It is the opportunity for each to shine, for you to go out and say I am in oneness with the Great Mother of this planet and together our hearts are opening other hearts. We are trusting in each moment wherever we are that our hearts are now ready to include life.

I have given you many different messages and this is a culmination of those messages where you can put a balm, BALM of light in a certain place. You can send a balm to the joining place between you and another circle of light that is being created by someone who is in touch with this community. You can open to many, many different places in your heart to open to certain animals, certain people and certain places. You can bring my energy through the circle, bring it to other places where it is needed.

I could say for you the truth that I need your help. I could say for you the truth that we have agreed to do this. I could say for you the truth that you and I were together, each of us, in this heart, in this Tree of Life, and that our connection brings a re-mineralization of your body so you feel safe in your body again and that together we make the planet safe.

Now just as with any spiritual intention, like your spiritual guidance from The Ones With No Names, the concept of the free will experiment gives you the choice to act or not, to become involved or not to be involved. Even though we have the truth that we have made these agreements, you can decide not now or not ever, or always or sometimes. Therefore we are together organizing our own energies though the truth of our intention to assist not just me, but each other and all life to experience more balance.

My idea that when you are sending out your consciousness awareness in these ways, to touch the border of each other, and spirit forms fields, that together you are a force of Light and Truth that is calling others. You are calling others that have the same intention or are welcoming that or looking for ways to provide balance in their world, how they define that.

So each of you is very aware that when we are touching each other, you are touching life and that is very exciting. It also accelerates the capacity for all elements in and around and through the earth to come into balance as well. This is very important because the energy of coming together on earth, each person who is performing this process also feels as if the character they have is being enhanced. Their heart is being expanded. They are feeling the appreciation of others. They are feeling linked to this whole circular planet consciousness.

And as important as any other thing, there is this feeling that the connection is making a difference. You can call someone in a country, or Zoom or Skype, WhatsApp, you can connect with other people in other countries. And when you think of it, this is a blanket movement of peace, even though you are knowing that they are in other countries, that is defined. We are then moving our field into their fields, and when we do so the boundaries disappear.

Now what this will create, now this is concept that I very much want you to understand. In the beginning there were no borders and when borders began to come, (as Billy Joel says in his song 2000 Years) and as the borders and kingdoms came, so did rights. And so did diminishing of personal power—your personal capacity. And so the borders have created the separation in many, many ways that it would be too numerous for me to discuss. As you think about it you will say, Oh, yes of course, property excludes.

So what we are doing is going way, way back to the very, very beginning of my life here, before your life began, even the first incarnation, because I was here first. And in knowing the power of One you can imagine it, think of the globe as One mass of light and energy and growth and beauty as it evolved. As we return it to no borders there is an infinite recall in the cells of each person that remembers what it's like when there is no need to request permission for anything, the sense of freedom that accompanies each moment of breath, each intention for being. And when we return the planet to the beginning, the growth will balance again, the waters will balance. The energy of the beginning will begin to restore all that has been harmed.

We will have this very strong turning over. It is like when you are going to plant, you turn the soil over. If you turn the oceans over, you begin to actually invest your consciousness into that feeling of renewal, this newness and openness. We will begin to feel as if there is again promise here. This is climactic, it's environmental, it's oceanic. Every part of your consciousness that you see and therefore have what you could think of as a reign over, this feeling that you are, Oh yeah we are creating again, we have this reign over. We can see it differently. We have the power to transform the divisions to the ultimate beginning or origin of life here.

So I would like for you to go with this idea please, that You are involved in a much more dramatic way to the acculturation of life, to the way the environment works, all those things. You don't have to have a solution, not like you have to study. Each one of you in your own territory, your field of life, has awareness of all the creatures around you, the behaviors of different species, what it is you could open to, to include more life and begin to spread the consciousness of that pure origin in more places.

Then we have this idea that we can actually affect a change in all of the environmental conditions that now exist because we are turning things into like a transformation, a transforming of what is into transformation of what is. The true what is has one thing that is the honoring of life, all life being honored and that is what is missing now. In my heart it is painful now, it is a very simple thing to honor life. Truly it is and it is lost, like a lost art and each one of you has made a commitment to be present to assist in the transformation of human that no longer honors life.

And I do not in any way limit how you use this idea. You can surround the President, you can surround the oceans, you can surround the wolves, the lions and you can call the Oneness into place again, because it is the true origin. Nothing else is really true.

So I will leave you with this idea. I am hopeful that you will walk with me each day as part of your own heart, that you will allow me to inspire your activities, your motions, your fields of energy, and that we will again be in communion so that our heart breathes as One. And that you have the inspiration moment-to-moment to carry me and our intention for life so that we plant the seeds of the New Earth.

I want you to know that I am very grateful that you care so much that you come so many times to hear my voice and that you are open to carry me in your heart. For we are on the edge and must reign in the runaway horses of greed and grabbing of power and annihilation of species, extinction and the subordination of human beings. We must end this now, and the best way that I can feel to do so is to return the earth to no borders so that everything is in its original creative essence, so that creative essence bubbles up and around and forges that Oneness for what has been separate from it and comes together with it again.

I invite you to send out the circle and enclose yourself in it, send bubbles of energy, feel the borders or boundaries are dissipating, know where you are located and just open to commune together so there is a very strong Army of Peace Keepers that are attending to the balance of our earth.

Thank you for your attention and your deep caring and your big hearts.

The Great Mother of Earth
