We are here with you and we would like to welcome you to this place and say that we are very glad that you have come. We are observing what you could think of as frenetic energy moving around the planet, deeply in certain places on the planet, and in certain core energies on the planet in terms of people and places. If we are taking a snapshot of the world, we are taking a snapshot of the relevant and irrelevant energies that are colliding.

We are taking stock of what is coming from the heart, what is coming from the mind, and how those two energies in their incompatibility, are creating frenetic energies.

This evening we would like to foster more of an understanding about what it is that you can actually open unto and carry that will assist in diffusing this frenetic energy, and aligning with each other more deeply, and recognizing that there is no time.

We have, as a body of Light and Order and consciousness, requested that you understand that the Free-will experiment is ending. These are the end times, as we were saying Monday evening. What you really want to understand about that is that the choice for life and Light is your optimal choice and that in the meantime as the world is discovering the capacity for the heart to transform things, you truly want to be broadcasting your heart. Not as an idea, not as a spiritual principle, not as an ideology, rather as who you are.

When we and the Great Mother and the consciousness of Light talk about life and honoring life, it's a really great idea. Anyone with a kind heart says 'yes,' we are going to honor life. Yes, we are going to do well because we are kind, lovely people. And representing the presence of the heart, living that as fully as possible in an uncompromising way, is what is being not just requested, not just required, but what is mandatory now for there to be a seeding on this planet of a different frequency—the frequency of life, which is the same as the beating of the heart.

Sometimes the simplicity of the Truth takes one by surprise. Sometimes one is so thinking about what it all means that one misses the beat of the presence of what is. In this particular time the heart is the frequency that is going to match the Divine, the Design of the future, the Union of the male and the female, the balance of power on the planet, and all those things are stemming from presence of the heart in a constant beating sense or rhythm that is shared among humanity.

Perhaps you have (we know you have but we are going to pretend) been in a group where you all had great vision or ideas or wanted to create something or wanted to live in a certain way or whatever. Over time you realized that the vibration between you was not congruent. Even though all of the things that seemed perfect and necessary were there — commitment, intention, education, vision, whatever.

What we want you to understand this evening is that the frequency of your heart matches the frequency of every other living thing or being on this planet. That is the key to unification. It's the frequencies of the hearts coming together in such a way that they provide a foundation for life. And if you are in your head about your heart, you won't be there. If you have unrequited love and are thinking about XYZ, you won't be there. If you are mourning or grieving or in a separate state therefore, you will not be there. Because the frequency of the heart that we are speaking about is the beating and spark of Light itself that keeps the heart beating. That allows all the hearts in the fiber of being to align and unify.

Now of course we are going to give you an idea of how to do that, and that's part of why we spoke about this. And yet the recognition that you are ready to step into that space is 99% of it, you know. It's not a hard thing to do, once you recognize ah, that's what I am here for. It doesn't matter what else you are here for...please understand that! The design will unfold, and your unique and particular gift will be given, that is coming

We are in a preparation phase right now, where the very nature of survival is at question, in every single way that you could question it. Therefore, we want you to understand that the frequency of the heart is the key to honoring life, but also to surviving in life, because the heart has a code in it and the code of the heart is the same in every living being.

When you open to the code in your heart and apply that code to another's heart, (this is of course without ego, not wanting anything back, we have to have that condition) with the intention to recall, remember, recognize or whatever, you are going to think about it again. You are going to feel it again. You are going to know it again — that the code of the heart is Oneness! Then when you are opening that code to another, then the Oneness is a jelling that happens, it comes together.

The importance of that is that when you are in that place there is absolute trust and there is an honoring of balance, equality, Order and Truth.

Each of us, each of you, all of us in a combined universal sense responds to the code because it is innate, inherent and imbued in the pacemaker inside the heart. It's already there. If we were to allocate what you could think of as Origin of it, it's the combination of the Great Mother of Sophia, the Great Mother of the Earth, and your mother—the three Mothers coming together with the code. It doesn't matter if your mother remembered the code, lived the code. See that's another subject. The subject at hand is, I have the code, it's been given to me by the Feminine Energy of Creation, it is the substance through which life is born and sustained, and I can open it anytime I want.

Many of you understand that since we came to this one speaking in 1986, that the individuals we attract are individuals who want to know the secrets that were held in the caves and the pathways and the subterranean initiatory spots and parts of the earth. So we provide you these many times and we don't tell you when we are going to, but we do provide you with those secrets. Those things that are not given because individuals do not know how to ask, they are not ready to hear, or they would misuse the information. That is why many learned and sacred ones have not divulged these Truths to the populous, to the people.

We are here this evening to provide you with this code so that you can "become" the conveyers of the code to your species now, today, tonight. Also, so that everyone you know and love, you think about them and you encode the code for them, you awaken the code in them. Every time you waken the code, your code is stronger. It is as if you are developing a muscle or a particular aspect of consciousness from the honoring and the attunement and the intention of the coding process.

So if you sit and feel for a moment the Truth that you have a code in your heart that recalls and recognizes and remembers Oneness, there will be little blip in your heart...a little elevation. A little spark and acknowledgement that 'yes' you do have a special code in your heart, and that you are ready to use that. You are here tonight because you are ready to use that. You are ready to use the code that unifies life through the vibration of the feminine creation. This is so that every part of you responds to that spark with excitement, pure involvement, the energy of being and finding Truth. Perhaps most important is to have an eye on the world, an eye on the people, an eye on the floods, and the locusts and the viruses and the pain and the burning and the drought and the radiation.

With an eye to the world and the people, you open the code. So this is a selfless act. This is where you decide, you decide before you are encoded again, that your life is here for the purpose, for the soul purpose of honoring life. Everything else is a byproduct of honoring life.

There are questions that we hear about what's happening. What should we do, and so forth. What we want you to understand is that this month of April and the month of May into the middle of June is a decisive choice point for each and every human being on this planet. (Also for other life forms, but we won't work too much with those this evening.)

So that means each person will come up to that place in their psyche where there is an indentation or an imprint or a necessity for them to make a choice, either for life or not. And it isn't up to you to decide who is going to have that choice and what they will choose and why they need to have that choice. Your total focus now, and we want to put this in very strong into your head, your total focus is on honoring life...not on who is honoring life and not honoring life. The focus is not on who is going to do what or who is not going to do what. It is about who can I focus on, how can I activate the code, what is it time for me to honor in that being and what is the response in my own body to that honoring?

Every time you honor someone there is going to be an enhancement or a magnification of your own heart code. It's as if when you apply this heart code to someone else, that you begin immediately to develop a capacity to break the codes. To look at different aspects of how you might apply the code to someone or how the code would open them.

You could think of it as one code but it has different doorways into it. Sometimes the doorway will be compassion, and sometimes it will be the love, and sometimes it will be the heart, whatever experience. And yet it is not something you think about but something you notice. You notice it more and more as your heart has refined to call forth the code in absolutely anyone. And it doesn't mean that you can't all focus on one person or one area of the world or one species like locusts in Africa moving crops into their bellies so humans do not have them.

You can think about your climate, your environment, the food, the people—the whole process. If you think about something because it is across your consciousness and you want to open the code to that, then again, as you work with it, play with it, have fun with it, and open unto it, there will be different doorways that will open. So you then have access to acknowledging immediately, I have got that. I made that connection. The code is received, yeah.

You are each going to develop your own way of processing this and working with it and thinking about it. However, there is that fundamental code that is always available and opening out in every moment. This is so that you are very much available to it because it is the combination of the Heart of your Mother, the Heart of the Great Mothers above and below you, and the breath that brings them together.

We will answer some more questions about the process that seem to be moving in and around your minds. If we together and other groups and other spiritual principles being utilized are expanded and magnified, if you carry the whole continuum of universal consciousness (of which the Earth is a part only, so that you have all of the planetary configurations and the many universes), and hold them in a circle, and bring Golden Light in and around and through everything, then what will happen ultimately is less challenging to every form of life on the planet.

So it just isn't prayer and meditation. It's seeing Golden Light everywhere, weaving itself into everything so that there is not a place in consciousness where the Golden Light is missing. The amount of stress and pain and suffering on the planet is directly in relationship to how much golden Light is present! We cannot say it any more clearly than that, because the Golden Light has at its core the Origin of life and is recognized by all life. That is why it is very direct, clear and very responsive. Everything is responsive to it you see.

So the more Golden Light we are pouring everywhere, the easier the balancing will be, the clearer the indications of others that are working with this consciousness will be. Their consciousness will be clearer. The other thing we want to make sure you understand is that when you are in the heart space with the code, this is very, very definite as far as we can see it, that what you are surrounding yourself in and conveying is balance. So balance means strong immunology, strong capacity to stay well. It means that you are part of a design of creation, so you are holding a vibration that is a safe vibration. You imbue the code into someone else's heart for them to open to that same balance and healing.

When you are with that idea and knowing you don't have to physically be with anyone to do this, there is great excitement. You each know individuals who are at risk because either their body is not as strong as they might wish, their system of immunology is not as strong as they might wish, or they are in circumstances that jeopardize that wellbeing.

Some of you know the story of the Hooponopono psychiatrist who in Hawaii was working on a locked ward. He would go in every day and look at the pictures of the prisoners in this locked ward where he was the psychiatrist. He would say the Hooponopono Prayer, but he would not meet with people. He would not sit face to face with them or have them come into his office. He would just have a photo album where he would have the people, their pictures. And he would say to them:

I love you
I am sorry
Please forgive me,
Thank you.

So this is a code. The Hooponopono prayer is a code that opens the heart. You can feel that. I love you, I am sorry, please forgive me, thank you – and you feel that so deep inside of you that you cannot say 'no.' And the psychiatrist did not know these people, personally. He knew their record, what they had for sentence for their crime, maybe what they had done to some degree, or some extent, but he did not know them and you do not need to know those who you will help, who you will support and who you will honor.

This is not about thinking. It's about being. So in that place of the heart, that the Hooponopono prayer reaches, there are elements. The first one is: I see you, very similar to the John Henry one. I see you and I remember you, very, very similar. You cannot tell someone, I love you if you cannot see their essence, or conjure them up or have an idea or something—a name. Through this capacity to say something to the image and the essence of the energy, you are calling something or someone to work with, and you say, I love you, so I acknowledge you, I see you, I know you. I can feel the vibrational connection with you.

The reason the Hooponopono prayer works so well is because the next sentence, please forgive me, means I have done something to you, not now maybe, but somewhere in our annals of evolution we have been in a relationship already that has been unequal or imbalanced. And you and I are the same. We are One. I am really you as well. I have really done what you have done, if not right now, sometime. There is no distinction between us. We are the same. I cannot judge you. There is not really a place or room to be separate from you. That is what please forgive me means.

We are in a place now where there is no difference between people. The idea that I am sorry and now I ask for your forgiveness, is literally saying, it is the end time, there is no more time! Whatever has been is now done! Thank you for seeing that, because we have no other choice now — this is not a choice anymore, because it is the time for coming together. End time means that it is the end of duality, not of life on our planet. And if you have that distinction in mind constantly: the end of duality, the end of separation, the end of the judgment, the end of the pain, end of whatever it is, then you say, thank you, thank you! How awesome is this! I came for this! This is why I am here, and you all know that is why I AM here. And you all know that is why you are here.

We are going to give you a process to open the code in your heart. The feeling that you had before when we were displaying the Hoooponooono prayer is the vibration of the code. This is one of the vibrations that the code owns and offers. You may have your own. You may develop your own code connection. You may say, I am Light and Light I shall remain; you may say, my heart is open to all that is; you may say, all of me is here now. You may say, I am one with the Great Mother. You may say anything you want, because your doorway and refinement to the code is your own. The code is the same.

It's like when people are coming for a Soul Recognition, sometimes people can receive love horizontally, sometimes they can only receive it vertically, from the top down or maybe even from the bottoms of their feet—in. Some people need to receive it from the back, from the air, from music, from oils, from touch. So each of you has your matrix and developing that muscle and matrix is your job. It's your job. There is no way around it, just through, you know. So it gives you a number of different assets right now.

The first essence of this particular code is its safety. The first asset of the code is safety. It's balance. It's a sense of being safe. And right now that's a pretty big asset.

The second asset is that it is not conditional on you doing something in a certain way at a certain time. In other words...being a good person or rising above your challenges. There is no condition upon your having the code. Which means there is no condition on your access to it, and when you are in the code, you are benefiting as well as whomever and whoever is in the code with you. So anytime you want to go into the code and open that space in yourself and dwell in your heart, you are strongly encouraged to do so, because you can. So safety, and this connection with unconditional love.

Again, just in case you didn't get this, the unconditionality of it means literally that you cannot judge yourself any longer. It takes that away because being in this heart space and dwelling there provides you with a consciousness of pure Oneness and nonseparation. How could you be in a code of Union and honoring life and not honor your own? So the unconditionality of this is one of your strongest assets because you start to love you as well, even down into the places where you don't look very often, the whole thing...deep, deep reverence.

The third thing is because there is no separation. Because of unconditionality—nothing is separate. Then the Oneness, the idea of unification becomes not an idea so much of the mind, but an essential nature that you receive. So you receive from being in the code of Oneness with others the actual vibration of what that Oneness is, what it feels like and how it begins to create a whole new clarity of what's coming.

Because this is important for you, we will go into this just a little bit here. Many of you know in your bodies that there is going to be peace on this planet and that that is where we are going, you know that. It is not something you refute. You don't question, you just know it, but you don't know how or when or what necessarily you will be doing or when you will be doing it. You don't know what you will have as an asset when you do it or who will be with you, or whatever...there are questions.

And so in a very definite way we want you to understand that the more coding that you experience on the planet, and the more refinement that occurs for you, then the pictures of how the number 3, (what we just gave you—that experience of Oneness), that third aspect of the code then begins to show you what happens down the road as the Oneness grounds into the consciousness of the people. Instead of having dreams about it or vague impressions or apocalypse over here, whatever, you start to have what you could think of as segues or a synapse where the energies come together and spark. So you don't have ideas around you, you have a concrete or at least an unfolding or more concrete understanding of your place in the Design.

So that leads us to say the statement that Oneness within you brings you the clarity of your Design. Don't go back and say oh, I must have not been very clear, just know that where we are right now is in the openings of these gateways. You are in a place now where your consciousness is delving into the secrets of how the kingdom works. You are being given opportunities to restore and refresh and renew the knowing that you already have, because if you are vibrating to this message, it is because it is already in you. You already know this message. You have already known it and felt it in many incarnations, knowing that it was coming you decided to appear here right now.

The fourth thing that you have with the coding is an idea of the relevance of actions on the planet. The more you are in the code, the more you are safe and it is unconditional, and then you are looking at the Oneness as an aspect of Truth. The fourth thing that happens for you is that the Truth that you are seeing (because of the 3rd aspect, number 3 aspect of what we have given you to understand), you display it and flesh it out a little bit and unpack it. The fourth thing is that as the Oneness happens and the Truth is going on, that's when that happens. You get the answers to what you have been seeing. That's what I am going to do—oh that's why...you see. And then you have this sense of Destiny, and it is exciting because you belong here now doing this. You want to be here doing this without fear and without condition, in Oneness, seeing your place. This is the reference system from which this evenings talk is coming.

We will now lead you on a little code opening exercise.
