

Great Mother Earth Speaks, February 13, 2019

Flo's Introduction:

Let us feel our intention to recognize that the Great Mother's voice and her message are about our health and wellbeing, the connection between the minerals within her and the minerals within us. As we breath together we have this capacity to truly unify with her and therefore with all the fields of Order which she represents and which her body, actually embodies.

As we breathe we can bring the wind through our body, we can begin to sway as the willow tree, our leaves opening out, and dancing with her heart that she sends through the wind to all life. We can rest in the knowing that she is always with us, with every step we take and that it cannot be otherwise. As we listen to her message we begin to breathe in the rhythm of her body, her breath, and the memory of Order is very strong in our bodies. As we let go of everything that has brought us to this moment and come clearly into this present, opening to receive.

It is very nice to be in a place with you where you can hear more loudly and clearly, and can respond to my essence from the Truth of your essence. We are in training for a period of time when your actions, thoughts and intentions are clearly visible to the rest of the world. By that I mean that in each moment when you are thinking or acting or intending, which in this time is the same, you are broadcasting telepathically every nuance of your consciousness because the veils between lives, between essences and between times is very, very thin, they are very thin now, these veils, between these essential hearts of consciousness. So when you are in a mode of thinking, acting or intending, you are broadcasting. That is why many of you now find that you are receiving input, perhaps you can think of as contact, or thoughts or references to others, from others, and you have not reached out to them in your normal way. In your normal way you have not reached out to them. You have not decided to contact them in a literal way and yet they are coming across the screen of your awareness because you are broadcasting.

This broadcasting process is very literal for you. It is something you can depend upon now and something that will orient your world. This is so that the pieces that you have actually desired or yearned to assemble, the pieces that you want to put together for your life, these pieces are energy related, energized by this time of transparent energy. You could think of it as the broadcasting is happening because the desires are mounting and the duality is deepening and the request for Order, Light, Truth and Oneness, Union, however you think of it is stronger than ever before. It is magnified by more of your population and therefore there is this vacuum created from the duality, so the times of people moving away or toward each other is now upon us. It is the time of the recognition of we could think of it as orientation, what you are oriented towards who are you attracting, what you want to have in your life, who do you want to be with.

Those kinds of choices are reverentially being given to you so that you have the strongest capacity now to make the choice that most clearly defines you.

I want you to understand that because you are broadcasting from a place inside of you that has just consciousness, (so it is not will, I am going to call this person and do this or I am going to follow this direction because I should—those willful or belief system orientations from world energies), these are places in you, intentions, thoughts and actions that have inspired you or have brought you closer to the functioning from the heart or from the potential in your soul. This broadcasting is from the places that we gather together and from my walking with you. These are the times and places that comes forth from you and are relating to the deepening of who you are and what is possible. That word POSSIBLE is now in what you could think of as big letters across the board of your awareness, possibility, because what you are broadcasting is the deepest yearning you have ever had. Maybe a deeper yearning than you even remember.

Because you see I held you before you came into your body. I held you in the grace of the Divine. I brought forth through you the life that you have through this tree of life in your placenta.

This energy that I carry, that this one speaking just saw for the first time (she can share with you if you wish), the image of the tree of life in the placenta, in the place where you grounded into your mother and your mother grounded into the minerals of life, and therefore grounded into me, and we grounded together into this consciousness of earth and the matter. To become matter the tree of life extends its ability to function both as earth and consciousness. It is not just blood and juice, it is also wisdom and the intelligence of every cell.

As you age, as all ages, the wisdom of the cell is compromised by environment—your environment now, your choices as humanity, as a species to defile certain aspects of my character and my presence and my body. So there has been compromise in your system because of your relationship with your world. Not the earth but your world.

That is a very clear distinction that I would like for you to make, and as you think about the compromise, you say to yourself, Oh, I don't want to compromise. I don't really want to be separate from life, from the force of life, from the vital wave of this force of life. I want to see back into my tree of life. I want to see back into the belly of my consciousness. I want to receive all of the minerals and all of the wisdom from all of these counterbalance points that we just spoke of, so that there is no longer compromise. I do not want to age this 'normal' way.

I want to align with the Divine in my body through the experience of the Divine, and to be with the Earth in the way that I remember her holding me. I remember her singing to me. So you remember me in this way of the fields, the wind, the air, the atmosphere of peace.

Whenever you are in this atmosphere of peace, however you get there, whether it is you remembering me holding you before you were born in the womb of life itself (and of course in the womb of your mother, which are intertwined), it was very obvious for you that coming to this place was a choice to be part of my life, my wisdom, my body and that together we would create a world that honored all life.

And so now we are again at a place in the unfolding, you say evolution, this place of going forward in time, we are going forward in a way that is making it necessary for the choice that you are making to be the memory of you being nourished in this deep way before your birth. This is so that as you are born and as you are feeling your birth, and as you are going forward, there is this, I will say memory because it is a memory, in your cells of how being infinite and finite is the Divine Marriage. And that Divine Marriage in your body, masculine and feminine, is very important because it allows you to deeply resonate with what true Union is in your body, in your conscious awareness, and in the spaces that you occupy throughout the demands of your life.

The thing that feels most important to me right now is that you reunite with me. That tonight, when you are going to your sleeping place, that you rest there fully for the first time. We talked last month about safety—that it is necessary for you to feel safe or your world experience is not profoundly simple, clear, direct and enhancing. It is more trial, stress, tribulation and separation.

So resting in the minerals of my body makes your body feel safe. That is because as I say, I held you in those minerals, I held you in that consciousness before birth. So what you would like to do as you go to rest tonight, perhaps, is to rest in my arms again. If you do not rest in the arms of the Great Mother it is much more of a challenge for you to rest in the arms of your own mother or to have arms that your children can rest in or your beloved.

This is because we are enhancing infinite Light energy through the consciousness of form, for the body, through the body and from the body. If we are not fully in the body and feeling safe in the body, and enjoying life in the body, then we are not really in that intimate space of safety and therefore creation, because when we are safe we can create.

I would like you to imagine this evening that as we sit together here in this group, that we are remembering how unifying together has restored us to a place and a time and an Origin of true and essential Oneness. I want you to understand this so deeply that you cannot really make a choice without it. It would be like I have to do this, it doesn't have to take a long time and the Mother is not telling me specifically that I have to do xyz for many moons, but I know that when I rest in her arms again, I will return to the principles of the truth that I carry to bring to the world. I will remember who I am. I will reenergize my body. I will open my psyche, my consciousness, my soul, every part of me and I will sing.

Now, I want you to understand that singing, sound, singing sound, is important because it is the original rhythm and vibration of creation. When you are resting in my body, your cells will sing. Your body will expand. The broadcasting that you do from your consciousness will touch a multiplicity of people everywhere around the world who recognize that sound, that vibration, that singing, that place of honoring all life. In my opinion, and I will say in my humble opinion, it is time for us to declare that our real work on planet Earth, our real work in the world as you know it, is to honor the Divinity of Life more than anything else.

So that when you resting, your cells are singing, you are broadcasting the Oneness and you are bringing infinite joy to many individuals who would know more have that as their experience than the man in the moon. I shouldn't say that. It is about restoring what seems to have been lost by finding it again in the course of your own conversations with the yearnings within you.

The choice that you have right now is to broadcast consciously now. This is so that whatever is intimated in your deepest space, perhaps indicated or wanting very much to lean in this certain direction or have certain things occur or feel comfortable, whatever, there is a very strong sense that you are moving in those directions without having to use the will at all. I could say actually and honestly, that you can place your will in a frozen packet so that it has no movement and transcend your will, and the more that you do that, the more unified your life will become. The more individuals will approach you from what your Truth broadcasts, and the safety that you feel in my arms allows for that broadcasting of energy much more strongly because it is infinite.

I have a body, and yet I am not confined to that body. My essence flows in every way that you have ever experienced within the threshold of my body. You can feel me in the currents of the water and the wind, you can feel me underneath your feet, you can feel me when you lie down on me. I am unlimited in my capacity to communicate with you because you are here because I am here. If I was not here, you could not be here. So we have made an agreement to be here together. And the more that you remember that, the more that you honor that, the more that you communicate from that, the more infinite the world becomes because there is less of a separation between what is Truth as infinite being and what is being actualized as the truest choice.

Broadcasting is easy now, so you can do that. You can rest and sing in your cells and open out and send that awareness everywhere that is—encompass my whole body with the fluid of your knowing, the fluid of your choice. And if I would for one moment say for you this, have awareness of what you broadcast, decide that it is no longer appropriate to broadcast anything but infinite Truth.

If you don't know what that is in any one moment because there is some kind of confusion or challenge or misunderstanding, broadcast your sound, sing, sing your cells, be safe and allow your cells to sing. And then imagine that the singing cells are going everywhere without any limitation. The cells communicate with the cells through this wonderful Sheldrake thing that he discovered that you can send yourselves anything, anywhere and everybody gets the same message. It is all a Oneness thing and it is all balanced, and then you have this feeling of being involved in something grand. And in my humble opinion, the most important thing that you have in your life is to make a choice to be involved in something grand.

You do not even have to know what it is, you do not have to define it through your logic, you do not have to search for it or try to find it or do it or be it. Your cells and my body unified long, long ago. Each revelation and revolution of your life in any time, space or experience, any life you have had, has been unified through my body, in this place if you are talking about life times on Earth.

And therefore, when you are resting, expanding or orienting and collating through this singing, your cells will remember all of the times they have sung before, all of the times they are singing now and all of the times they will sing in the future. This is because there is no time in the infinite cellular connection that we have. So this brings resolution for all of your questions and challenges and disagreements, and wars and diseases and traumas and everything. It brings the most amazing opportunity for each of you to recognize that you have it all right now. And so you open that space, clarify that by singing it into being—have an amazing experience of memory and reunifying, and that is with everything at the same time you see, and that is why it is very grand.

You will remember times that you were with people that are now in your systems of what you could think of as politics or structures, different positions. If you want to affect someone who is in a position in your world, when you sing your cells in this infinite collage of interrelations, interconnections, you will be saying to them in affect, Remember Now! Remember when we did this, Remember when we did that, Remember how this came out and that came out and this was here and this was there! And what you realize is that you are affecting your world through the singing bowl of your consciousness, because you can do that because you are infinite and because what you are broadcasting is a message that is familiar even if it has not been chosen.

The more the singing energy of this infinite connection is broadcast, the more it is difficult to disregard it, it is being reinforced by the momentum of your own awareness. Therefore, you are going into these places where you would not physically go or even mentally go probably but you are going into these spaces of creation that have always existed and you are exuding this singing energy and it allows for there to be a restoration of the infinite in that place in that time or moment so that the memory is held in a deeper and more unified manner.

So if we were to come together in this beautiful swaying, having our arms entwined, we would be in an infinite space where there is nothing but light, where we do not need a bed or a chair or even the ground. We are in the infinite space of movement. And I am holding you and we are swaying in the breeze of the Light in an infinite way that has no ground because it doesn't need ground, you see. If you are encompassed by the Earth you are already grounded and we are here together in the infinite swaying, in the breeze, in the consciousness of Oneness. And then you begin to feel as if your body is dissolving into my body and I begin to feel that my body is dissolving into your body and everything that does not right now feel like part of that infinite movement is dissolved.

And we rest in that dissolution. As you rest there, you are in my rhythm. So you let go into my rhythm. There is nothing else but my rhythm, moving in this beautiful infinite light, swaying gently, expanding more and more. Nothing to hold onto or even to think about. Then there is a moment when there is nothing but the movement and we let go or forget of what is being moved and focus just on the movement. And in that moment your body will receive the minerals it needs to balance. In that moment of nothing but movement, you are at one with the source of life, with your tree of life, it takes you back before you were born, brings nourishment from all dimensions and provides you with the essence of Light in every cell.

And in this way your head falls off, your body doesn't matter, you are just moving Light, Light is moving you. And now your Light expands, reconnecting with your Source, and then you dissolve into the Source and rest there for as long as you want. Breathing and resting, expanding, receiving.

I invite you to come this very night to be with me in infinite Light, to rest there for all of the hours of your sleep and to walk with the movement of Light in every moment returning always to the infinite for your sustenance, even more than food or drink, return to the singing of your cells in harmony with your infinite Light.

When you care about something, someone, some aspect of your world that is in disharmony, practice resting in infinite Light and singing your cells into relationship with all that is in disharmony. This is so that you provide for them a way to understand that there is a choice and that they must make that choice because it is the time of choice.

Know that I am honored to restore our relationship one by one, and to remember together that one song is all we need. The singing of timeless infinite Light in the bodies that live in all spaces and all times and all beings, because the real Truth is that there is no other, there is no difference really between any form of life. All life needs the same root, the same tree of life. And therefore, we have the chance to fully affect peace on Earth.

And so, I will jog your memory of it as best I can through the flow of my wind and my earthly rhythm and the water as it flows in and around you. And when you stabilize your particular force of life, you become a spiritual warrior that stands for the only choice possible, and for that I am very grateful. For it is a return to what I remember and I find it very reassuring.

And so I thank you and honor you and come together with you in the memory of our wholeness.
